Bodies Then Sent to the Government Experts, Who Made Thorough Examinations.

Additional cases of persons being bitten by dogs continue to develop in all sections of the city. The week has been a busy one for both the Bureau of Animal Industry and the District Health Department, which are compelled to bear the brunt of the work caused by dogs being permitted to roam the streets unrestrained either by muzzles or leashes, as has been recommended by several eminent scientists.

A black and white dog has been re-ceived at the Bureau of Arimal Industry for an examination to determine whether it had the rabies when killed yesterday afternoon at the District

Sent to Bureau.

This dog belonged to Edmund Sweeney, 334 Fifteenth street southeast, and previous to being sent to the pound bit Max Eck, twelve years old, of 1819 E street southeast, on the left leg. The dog was sent to the bureau at the request of the parents of the boy, as a precaution, although it showed no signs of the rables at the

A white poodle also has just been received at the Bureau of Animal Industry, after having been killed at the District pound. This dog belonged to P. D. Root, 1728 Fourteenth street, and bit William Therrien, five years old, of 1730 Fourteenth street northwest, on the left leg on May 29.

Two Cases of Rabies.

It has been detained at the pound since, but showed no symptoms of the rables. To fully determine the matter the dog was killed, and its body sent to the bureau for a microscopic exami-nation, at the request of the parents.

A test has just been completed by the bureau of the body of a fox terrier the property of S. D. Knott, of Tunlow road and Joilet street, which was re-ceived on May 15. The test proved the case to be one of rables. This dog bit case to be one of rables. This dog bit Rebecca Knott.

The microscopic test of the brain of the dog sent to the bureau by Edward T. Woody, who resides on Canal road established a positive case of the rables. The dog had butten several other dogs before being killed.

Judge Mullowny Wants to Break Up Line That Stands Along Seventh Street.

Judge Mullowny is determined that use Seventh street, between Pennsylvania and New York avenues northwest, as a market place. He has reit erated this time and again, and this push cart at Seventh and G streets for fifteen minutes, and a fine of $10 was imposed on another for stopping the same time at Seventh and F streets.

In spite of a strong plea for mercy on the part of the defendants' counsel Judge Mullowny said that he was going to do whatever was in his power to break up the practice.

"These men voluntarily take out a license to sell bananas and other fruit on the street," said the court. "Seventh street is probably the most profitable thoroughfare on which they can peddle their wares. All of these venders know this, and the result is that there is almost a continuous line from Pennsylmost a continuous line from Pennsylvania avenue to New York avenue.

"Merchants have complained to the Commissioners so frequently that it was necessary for them (the Commissioners) to amend the police regulations a short time ago, so that the maximum fine is now $20, instead of $10.

"The only way to protect the merchants who conduct stores along Seventh street and prevent the place from becoming a regular market space for the push cart men is to impose the miximum fine after the first conviction."
